

Coursera Capstone-The Battle of Neighborhoods Part 1 (Week 4)

Introduction:

This is a course where we play with locations and find out what resources are available at a particular place and whether it is enough for the people there. We can also find out where there is a lack of things and how it can benefit people.

For example let's take New York .This is a city with a large amount of diversities. There are a lot of different nationalities of people staying there. But are the requirements of them met? There may be a lack of Indian restaurants. So we can visualize London or its parts which h have a varieties of Indian restaurants. We may find which location have the best restaurant or we can also find the place where there will be a profit by opening Indian restaurants.

Business Problem:

If people wants to open Indian restaurants we can find the best place for them to increase their profits hence business. So if we can explore the locations that other nationalities also need I think that will do a good to a lot of persons.